

Making a sustainable lifestyle attractive

Team members

Eveline Russ

My name is Eveline Russ and I am a first-year master student of Nutrition and Health at Wageningen University. During my bachelor I've studied Nutrition and New Product Management, Psychology and Global Equality. I'm interested in sustainability related to food, the food supply chain and health. Climate Coach4u aims to make the sustainable lifestyle more accessible to everyone and I am therefore looking forward to work for this project.

Jasper Fluitman

I am Jasper Fluitman and have a bachelor's degree in Coastal and Marine management with specialization in (marine) policy. My interest in (water) sustainability has led to the decision to study the master environmental science, specialization track water systems and global change. This background has motivated me to improve the world by looking at sustainability and changing people's behavior.

Joongseob Kim

I am Joongseob and I currently follow the Biosystems engineering program with a specialization in Geoinformation and Remote Sensing. I also follow the Entrepreneurship track and am really looking forward to contributing to CC4U in our ACT project.

Martijn Gobes

I am Martijn, currently follow the Molecular Life Sciences Master, specializing in Physical Chemistry at Wageningen University. I have also done a minor in data sciences.

Marije van den Oever

I am a strong believer that environmental change can be best addressed by changing human behavior. With a master's in international development and a bachelor's in interdisciplinary social sciences I hope to be able to influence people to behave more sustainably so the world can change for the better.

Nino Chkhaberidze

I am currently following Tourism, Society and Environment Master and doing Entrepreneurship Track at Wageningen University and Research. I am interested in sustainable travel, innovations and technology. I have working experience in project management and marketing.
